Booz Allen Hamilton Engineering Services Wins $413 Million GSA Task Order to Provide Systems Integration in Support of Air Force Flight and Maintenance Training Systems and Simulators

MCLEAN, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Booz Allen Hamilton Engineering Services LLC, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Booz Allen Hamilton (NYSE:BAH), announced today that it was awarded a $413 million task order on the U.S. General Services Administration's (GSA) Alliant Government wide Acquisition Contract (GWAC). Booz Allen Engineering Services will support the 902nd Mission Support Group's Randolph Trainer Division at Randolph Air Force Base in San Antonio.

Alliant, GSA's premier enterprise GWAC, gives agencies access to customized IT solutions, and provides for long-term planning of large-scale program requirements. This new task order consists of a one-year basic award, with four, one-year options.

Under the terms of the task order, Booz Allen will function as the systems integrator to design, develop, procure, analyze, and support Air Force aircraft flight and maintenance training systems and simulators. Specific work will be individually proposed and awarded over the life of the task order.

"Our experienced team is ready to assist the 902nd Mission Support Group with the critical work of ensuring our Air Force gets the most value out of its investments," said Monty Montero, vice president, Booz Allen Hamilton Engineering Services.

This win builds on the firm's previous engineering services efforts with the 902nd Mission Support Group over the past four years developing and fielding airborne and forward air control training systems.

Forward-Looking Statements

This press release contains, or may be deemed to contain, "forward-looking statements" (as defined in the U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995). Examples of forward-looking statements include information concerning the value of the contract awards and Booz Allen Hamilton's future performance under the contracts. These statements give Booz Allen Hamilton's current expectation of future events or its future performance and do not relate directly to historical or current events.
